About the Brahma Kumaris Headquarters in Mount Abu

Mount Abu is closely associated with the Brahma Kumaris and their headquarters. The organisation's history in Mount Abu dates back to 1950, and the headquarters today includes several important campuses serving different spiritual, educational and residential purposes.

The three campuses most relevant to visitors are Pandav Bhawan, Shantivan and Gyan Sarovar. While they are part of the wider Brahma Kumaris headquarters network, they are located in different places and serve different purposes.

Understanding this difference can make your visit much easier, particularly if you are travelling specifically for accommodation or a spiritual programme.

Why Visit the Brahma Kumaris in Mount Abu?

A visit to the Brahma Kumaris in Mount Abu is an opportunity to step away from a busy routine and spend time in an environment focused on meditation, self-development, spiritual learning and inner peace.

Depending on the campus and programme, visitors may experience meditation sessions, spiritual classes, residential programmes, peaceful gardens and opportunities for personal reflection.

The experience can be different from a conventional holiday or hotel stay. Visitors are encouraged to follow the campus schedule, maintain a peaceful atmosphere and respect the spiritual environment.
